Finds Many Dead in Home.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

DANVILLE, VA., October 19.—A startling illustration of this terrible menace of influenza when not promptly and properly treated has just come to light in the distressing experience of the family of Marcellus White, a Pittsylvania County farmer, who resided at Red Oak Hollow. Of Mr.

White's family of nine, only four are now living, and one of these is not expected to recover.

The shocking discovery of the pitlable condition of this family was made a day or two ago by Mrs. Charles Keeling, a neighbor, who had heard of the illness in the family, and went to the home to ascertain conditions and offer her services. Upon her arrival she found Mrs. White and her infant child lying dead in bed; the husband and father has died since, and two other children have succumbed to the virulence of the disease and lack of proper medical treatment. Two remaining younger children were brought here and placed in a local hospital, and a third child, while yet alive, is not expected to live.

WINCHESTER, VA., October 19.—An order has been issued by State Prohibition Commissioner Peters to release all the confiscated liquor held by the police here for the use of indigent pneumonia patients in Memorial Hospital. The liquor is to be sold to the hospital at $5.20 per quart on the order of Judge F. B. Whiting, of the Corporation Court. Dr. Walter Cox, health officer, made requisition on the local authorities for liquor for patients, but they passed the request on to Commissioner Peters. There are about 100 quarts here of all grades.

Epidemic is Gradunily

Abating.

PETERSBURG, VA., October 19.—The influenza situation showed improvement to-day in the decrease in the number of cases reported. To-day's report showed 154 new cases, the lowest number for some days. The grand total of sufferers from the disease is 5,608, with a total of 459 are encouraged to believe that the opidemic is now abating, and that with one care on the part of the people it will explicate the request on the Corporation for patients, but they passed the request on to Commissioner Peters. There are about 100 quarts here of all grades.
